

RATIONALIST

orderly, rule-governed process produces ideal solution to problem has capacity for radical change how policy should be (and sometimes is) made

INCREMENTALIST

unpredictable bargains and trade-offs results in most practical solution to problem moves in small steps (increments) from status quo how policy is (and should be) made

Figure 12.5